What is Academic Forgiveness?

Academic Forgiveness is a way for students to recover from academic problems without forever jeopardizing academic standing.

In accordance with the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education policy (3.12.6 Grading - Academic Forgiveness Provisions), NSU has adopted a three-part Academic Forgiveness Policy for currently enrolled undergraduate students; Repeated Courses, Academic Reprieve, Academic Renewal

How to calculate your GPA: (grades * credits) / credits = GPA

Step One: Calculate how many credit hours you have of each letter grade

Number of Credit Hours	Grade	Total Grade Points (Hours x Grade Points)
7	A (4 points)	28
12	B (3 points)	36
21	C (2 points)	42
6	D (1 point)	6
3	F (0 points)	0
Total: 49		Total:112

Step 2: Divide total grade points by total number of hours
 $112 \text{ grade points} / 49 \text{ credit hours} = 2.286 \text{ GPA}$

How to calculate with Academic Forgiveness?

Adjust grade points to reflect new or projected grades. If the student in the example above retook one of the classes they originally received a D, and earned a B, they would adjust those columns accordingly. The number of credit hours earned for a D would drop from 6 to 3 which would adjust grade points for D from 6 to 3. The number of credit hours for B would raise from 12 to 15 which would adjust grade points for B from 36 to 45.

$118 \text{ grade points} / 49 \text{ credit hours} = 2.408 \text{ GPA}$

Academic Probation Chart:
