Bystander Intervention

Your first semester of college could potentially be a risky time for you and your peers. But the good news is that there are many things you can do to mitigate that risk for yourself and others. By being an active and engaged bystander, you can either directly intervene by assisting the potential victim or by confronting the person you think is doing something wrong. If you do not feel comfortable or safe intervening you can delegate the intervention to someone else, or you can simply do anything that distracts someone long enough to discontinue the abusive behavior. The most critical step, however, is recognizing the need to intervene in the first place. Don't be a passive bystander.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Financial Literacy - Avoiding Debt:

Steps to keeping student loan debt down

- » Seek out scholarships
- » OklahomaMoneyMatters.com
- » Does your employer offer a tuition reimbursement program?
- » Do your parents' employers offer a tuition reimbursement program?
- » Many organizations have scholarship programs such as churches, tribes, veterans organizations, etc.
- » Visit Financial Literacy - HawkCents for budgeting, credit, debt and savings information: <https://offices.nsuok.edu/financialaid/FinancialLiteracyCenter/default.aspx>.

Budgeting 101 - Tips to make your refund last:

- » Pay your rent for the semester in advance. Talk to your landlord about paying your rent for the entire semester and ask if they will give you a discount for doing so.
- » Utility companies will also let you pay in advance and they will pay your bill from your credits each month until the funds are depleted. Take $500 of your refund and credit your utility bill up front.
- » Set aside a gas fund. Estimate how much per week you use in gas and purchase a gas card.
- » Visit <https://offices.nsuok.edu/financialaid/FinancialLiteracyCenter/default.aspx> for budgeting, credit, debt and savings information in the Money Matters section.

» Answers to FAQs:

- » First-time loan borrowers must complete their online master promissory note and entrance counseling session at: StudentAid.gov before their loan will be disbursed to the school.
- » Students must complete a FAFSA every year. You can complete the FAFSA Oct. 1 of each year at: FAFSA.gov.
- » The Office of Student Financial Services corresponds with all students via their NSU greenmail account, it's important that students check this account regularly.
- » Any outside aid/resources that a student may receive, i.e. scholarships, grants, waivers etc... may affect the amount of aid you received through the Federal Student Aid programs. It's very important that you inform the Office of Student Financial Services of any outside resources you may be receiving.
- » All award offer notifications initially sent to students are based on full-time enrollment status. If you are not full-time at the time of disbursement, your award offer will be decreased accordingly to correspond with your actual enrollment. NOTE: 12+ hours is considered full time for undergraduate students and 9+ hours is considered full time for graduate students.
- » Students are required to continuously meet three general requirements to retain eligibility for federal student aid.
- » Minimum cumulative GPA requirement (Undergraduates who earned less than 30 credit hours requires a 1.7 GPA, those who earned greater than 30 credit hours requires a 2.0 GPA. Graduates must maintain a 3.0 GPA).
- » All students must successfully complete 67 percent of all courses they attempt.
- » All students must complete their degree within a timely manner (150% Rule).
- » Please read the full Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy located on the NSU Student Financial Services website.

COMMON READ

Rebekah Taussig will challenge everything you think you know about disability as she invites us into her experience of living in a body that looks and moves differently than most. "What would it mean for disabled folks if society saw us as acceptable, equal, valuable parts of the whole?" she writes in her memoir, "Sitting Pretty: The View From My Ordinary Resilient Disabled Body" (HarperOne). A storyteller at heart with a great sense of humor, Taussig invites us to think bigger and more critically about who has a seat at the table and the barriers that bar others from inclusion. Taussig is the recipient of the Hefner Heitz Kansas Book Award in Literary Nonfiction for "Sitting Pretty."
